FOREWORD

» » THE 1934 CAULDRON to some a record of events, to others a treasure of college days, and to its makers, a lot of real, hard work. Though it be volume XIII, we are not apprehensive but feel confident that it will be accepted as symbolic of Northeastern spirit and progress.

Here is your Cauldron. Just remember that you are part of it.

DEDICATION

To

GEORGE HARRIS MESERVE, JR.

we dedicate this book,

for his sincere counsel and thoughtful guidance through five long years. The successes of the Class of 1934 are largely results of his effort and we, as a class, are grateful. May we, in future life, show our appreciation of his work by adherence to the principles he taught us.

THE turbulence and instability of the world of today are evident on every hand. We find a leading nation throwing religion into the discard. We see a necessity of rule by dictatorship prevailing in many countries, including our own. Agreements are difficult to obtain and then only after almost incessant bickering. Muffled rumblings and grumblings cannot escape notice. Race prejudice is once more thrust into the foreground and with it consequent injustices. The economic difficulties and the struggles to tear loose from them threaten to engulf us in a most cruel and devastating war.

This picture is surely a disturbing one to gaze upon. Nevertheless, it is quite true, and worthy of careful scrutiny. Even in our small academic circle we cannot but sense the feeling of doubt and insecurity. To meet the ever-changing demands it has been necessary to adapt ourselves. Thus, we have witnessed in our University numerous experiments and developments taking place. The following will prove significant.

The class of 1934 has the honor and the privilege of being the first class to receive the degree of Bachelor of Science. With the honor will go a certain prestige of decided advantage in the bitter struggle of finding jobs. The power to grant the degree of Bachelor of Science was made possible by an increase in semester hours of classwork, resulting in the five-year curriculum. When this plan was inaugurated the recent drastic business curtailment could not be anticipated. To meet various needs and difficulties arising from the current depression, a new four-year curriculum has been devised and will be in operation next fall. This plan will decrease the number of years of possible co-operative work and yet fulfill the already established requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Science. Students should look with favor upon the new arrangement, since it will mean increased savings, not only in time but in money. Surely these changes have been most progressive for student and for University.

The introduction of football has bolstered a waning school spirit and has created an enthusiasm among the student body quite unknown when soccer was the major fall sport. The Activities Department is to be complimented on its forward step in such discouraging times. May football serve not as a money-making business, but as a true builder of school spirit, team-work, and friendly relationships both at home and away. Speaking of football, it might be well to speak also of the courses of football instruction to be given here next summer by nationally known coaches. There is another innovation of important consequence.

Several other new features can well be reviewed here. Freshman Camp, introduced and conducted by the Student Union, has proved a most helpful and encouraging reception to the bewildered yearling. This first aid toward moulding boys into men is an important one. First impressions are lasting ones! In class elections decided improvements have been made. A more representative basis for choosing officers has brought about fair play and has erased serious grievances between business and engineering students. This factor alone, by creating unity in achievement, has strengthened the internal organs of the school body. We are as one; let us act as one! To the satisfaction of many Seniors has come a separate graduation for those receiving degrees. Surely no one will begrudge the Seniors this distinction.

Thus briefly have been summed up the major changes in the last few years. They are all significant and doubtless very influential to university standing. In later years, as alumni of a greater and broader University, may we proudly look back on these years of trying effort during which we were able to lend a hand. Looking ahead, one sees additional experiments yet to be tried, each for the sole purpose of bettering our school. Who can doubt that new buildings will soon rise where weeds and straggling bushes now grow? Last winter the University purchased considerable land adjoining our present property and it is only a matter of time before students will attend classes and experiment in the laboratories of the new buildings. These rapid developments mean but one thing—our University is alive and progressive. In spite of adverse business conditions it is forging ahead. Even if our college training should leave with us nothing save this will to accomplish under adverse conditions, it will have benefited us much.

A message to Seniors—you have spent five long years in laborious preparation for your life's work. In June you will be ready to begin that work. There may be none waiting for you. What of it! This is not the first depression that ever struck our country. Go out and make a job. If you disregard making a job you will find yourself drifting, you will slowly lose the knowledge you have gained, you will lose your ambition, and the result is evident. You do not quit a football game at the end of the first quarter just because you could not score. Then neither should you quit after graduation, even if there are no jobs in sight. You have had good coaching; why fumble in the game?

In closing, the Cauldron Board wishes to express its deep appreciation and gratitude to its adviser, Professor Everett C. Marston. Throughout the year he has co-operated sincerely, always shifting credit due him to others less deserving. That he continue to serve as the Cauldron adviser is the wish of those who realize his worth.

To individuals not on the Board who have contributed freely we are also greatly indebted. To Miss Marjorie Blanchard, Miss Madelyn Ralph, and Mrs. Katharine Goodspeed, for typing and secretarial work. To the offices of the Activities Department and of the Director of School Administration, and to Professor William C. White, for information and assistance. To Mr. Warren K. Vantine, Mr. Dino G. Valz, and Mr. Russell C. Knight, for suggestions and co-operation.

It has been a pleasure to assist in the editing of this annual, and the retiring Board hopes that next year's officers, too, will take pride and find satisfaction in their work. We have, with our combined efforts, tried to meet the appeal for a change. Realizing our limitations, we have done our best. May this Cauldron be received in the spirit in which it has been made and is now given to you!

1894-1933

As a member of the Department of Mathematics from 1924 to 1933, William Jefferson Alcott, Jr. contributed much to the life of Northeastern. He was stimulating as a teacher, and as a friend. He applied a brilliant analytical mind to a wide range of interests. Northeastern will long bear the impression of his work and his personality.

COLLEGE YEAR

THE COLLEGE YEAR

ANNUAL NEWS BANQUET

The 1933 Annual Banquet held for members of the Northeastern News took place on January 29 at the Hotel Brunswick. This was the first News banquet ever to be held so early in the year and was in accord with a new plan to have the new Managing Board and Associate Managing Board assume their duties at the end of the first semester of each school year in the future.

Paul E. Noonan, '34E of Waltham was named as the new Editor-in-Chief for Division B, with Charles W. Perry, '34E of Athol as Editor-in-Chief for Division A. Acting as toastmaster for the occasion was Merrill N. Friend, '34E of Gloucester, retiring Managing Editor for Division A.

Dean Harold W. Melvin was the main speaker of the evening, his subject being "Writing for Fun."

NEWS BARN DANCE

Under exotic lights in a hall remodeled from an old stable at the foot of Beacon Hill, fifty members of the News staff and their guests danced to the music of Rollie Rogers' Rhythm Orchestra on March 10, 1933. It was the first time that the News had ever held a dance.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Norris Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank LaBree, and Professor and Mrs. William C. White, from the faculty. Donald Jenks, Robert Chamberlain, and Jesse Eakins, all ex-editors, were also present.

VARSITY BASKETBALL BANQUET

The Lenox Hotel was the scene of the Annual Basketball Banquet held on March 7, 1933 with 29 members of the squad, the managerial staff, and guesrs present. Here the election took place which resulted in the announcement of Adolph A. Jachym '35BA of Westfield, and Stanley W. Kramer, '35BA of Port Washington, New York as co-captains of the team for the season of 1933-1934. Milton W. Nutt, '35BA of Wakefield was named manager of the team for the same season.

Professor Edward S. Parsons, Director of Student Activities, announced the award of Varsity letters to Captain Brown, Jachym, Kramer, Cleveland, Day, Milbrandt, Morse, Church, and retiring manager Preston.

John S. Preston, manager for the past season, presided, introducing as speakers, Dean Carl S. Ell, Professor Edward S. Parsons, Dr. Henry Kontoff, Mr. Paul Swaffield of the Hood Rubber Company, and Coach McCoy.

To bring the occasion to a happy ending, retiring Captain Charles H. Brown presented to Coach McCoy, on behalf of the squad and managerial staff, a beautiful electric banjo clock.

VARSITY HOCKEY BANQUET

The election of Herbert Gallagher, '35BA of Newton as captain of the 1933-1934 hockey team featured the annual banquet held at the Hotel Lenox on March 14, 1933. Gallagher, one of the outstanding athletes of the University, and three-letter man, was the high scorer and mainstay of the team for the season. Charles F. Kelley, '34BA of Jamaica Plain was elected manager.

Paul Noonan, '34E, retiring manager, acting as toastmaster, presented Coach Raymond as the first speaker. Mr. Raymond summarized the season, expressing his appreciation of the co-operation of the squad. Other speakers, Dean Melvin, Dr. Kontoff, Professor Parsons, and Mr. H. Bradlee Fenno, had only words of praise for the team. Mr. Fenno presented all the letter men and Coach Raymond with watch charms in the form of gold hockey sticks.

Letters were awarded to thirteen members of the squad: Captain Walsh, Captain-elect Gallagher, Leverone, Rice, Dingwell, Denton, Cahoon, Letourneau, Irving, Emerson, Patten, Radden, Furdon, and to Manager Noonan.

ANNUAL DRAMATIC PRODUCTION

"Gold in the Hills," or "The Dead Sister's Secret," blood-curdling melodrama of the "Gay Nineties," was presented to full houses on each of the two nights, March 24th and 25th, 1933, in Bates Hall.

Several musical specialties added to the interest and amusement of the play. New York's favorite songbird, Miss Rose Robinson sang "A Bird in a Gilded Cage." This pathetic ballad was well rendered by Oliver E. Parker, Glee Club soloist. In addition to this solo John Dalton, son of the soil, played by William Wattie, our annual hero, and J. E. Davidson of the Glee Club sang "The Bowery" and other old favorites. Last, Hawk Shaw, the detective, came to life again, and tearing off his whiskers in the last scene, revealed himself to be Langley Morang.

An innovation in the program of the evening was dancing after the play, which lasted until 12 o'clock. Music was furnished by the "Frosheteers."

On account of the size of the performance, and the detailed work of preparing each member of the cast for his part, there was a great deal of work to the production of the show; and much credit is due to Coach David Russell and to Clarence Greenwald, General Manager of the play, for the excellent result achieved.

ANNUAL DRAMATIC PRODUCTION BANQUET

The banquet held for members of the cast of "Gold in the Hills" took place in Ginter's Wedgewood Restaurant, March 27, 1933. A. H. Fenlason, business manager of the show, acted as master of ceremonies.

Following the banquet, the group adjourned to the Plymouth Theatre, where they witnessed "The Piccoli," by Podrecca, a program acted by marionettes.

Guests included Mr. David Russell, director of the play, Mr. Benjamin M. Ellison, Prof. Edward S. Parsons, and Dean Harold W. Melvin.

MIDWINTER CONCERT AND DANCE

The combined Musical Clubs gave their annual concert at Jordan Hall on the evening of February 4, 1933. In attending this concert, the student body and their friends gained the only opportunity of the year to hear in one evening all the musical organizations of the University: the University Band, Concert Orchestra, the Glee Club, Banjo Club, and the Bacchanalians.

In addition, Mr. Leo Litwin and Miss Elizabeth Travis Behnke, duo pianists of radio fame, appeared as guest artists, and delighted the audience with their selections, which included several Hungarian folk songs.

In order to avoid the crowded dancing conditions of past years, an innovation was introduced in having two dancing halls, each with its own orchestra. The Bacchanalians played for dancing from ten to twelve o'clock in Brown Hall, while the new Freshman Orchestra furnished their syncopated rhythm in Recital Hall during the same time.

ANNUAL SIGMA SOCIETY BANQUET AND ELECTIONS

The Annual Banquet of Sigma Delta Epsilon, Honorary Society of the School of Business Administration, was held on April 12, 1933 in the Everglades at the Hotel Westminster. Invited guests included Dean Carl S. Ell, Mr. Benjamin M. Ellison, Mr. Gerald R. Tatton, Mr. George R. Fennell, Mr. Albert J. Oliva, and Professor Charles W. Havice, faculty adviser.

After the dinner, the Society members and their guests adjourned to the Rose Room where the business meeting was called to order by Walter S. Thayer, president of the Society. After the elections had been announced, Mr. Thayer introduced Dean Carl S. Ell, guest speaker.

The following men were elected to offices in the Society: George E. Hodgson, '34BA, president; Benjamin A. Berkall, '35BA, vice-president; and Arthur R. James, '34BA, secretary-treasurer.

JUNIOR PROM

The Annual Promenade of the Junior Class, sponsored by the Class of 1934, took place on April 18, 1933 in the Main Ballroom of the Hotel Statler, with Sammy Liner's orchestra furnishing the music. Robert F. Chamberlain of Springfield, Massachusetts, Chairman of the Junior Prom Committee, headed the Grand March which began promptly at 12.00, and continued until the favors had been distributed to each of the two hundred seventy-five couples attending. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chamberlain were assisted in the receiving line by President and Mrs. Frank Palmer Speare, Dean and Mrs. Carl S. Ell, Dean and Mrs. Harold W. Melvin, Professor and Mrs. George H. Meserve, Jr.

Features of the evening were the singing of specialty numbers by Buddy Clark and the Misses "Billie" Trask and Bernice Pike, all of local radio fame; also a broadcast of the dance music over the Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company through station WEEI for a period of thirty minutes.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

The finals of the Annual Public Speaking Contest were held at a Mass Meeting in Jordan Hall on April 26, 1933 with Professor Charles W. Havice, chairman of the board of elocution, presiding.

Walter F. Wolfrum '34E won the first prize, speaking on the subject of "The Hypocrisy of Democracy" in a confident and effective manner. Raymond W. Stone, '37E won second prize with his "Preparedness and World Peace"; Maurice F. MacAuliffe, '37E, third prize; and Ralph L. Keller, '34E, fourth prize.

BAND AND DIVISION A GLEE CLUB GET-TOGETHER

The University Band and Division A Glee Club held their annual combined supper and theater party on April 21, 1933 at the Wedgewood Restaurant, and the Majestic Theater. Mr. Nicholas W. Brosius of Berlin, New Hampshire, president of the Northeastern Musical Clubs Council, acted as toastmaster. Following a very enjoyable supper, Mr. Brosius awarded charms to the members of the Musical Clubs Council, and to those members of the clubs who had met the various requirements. A few brief talks were given and the group then adjourned to the Majestic Theater where they witnessed Romberg's musical romance, "Blossom Time."

Invited guests of the evening were Dean Harold W. Melvin, Professor Edward S. Parsons, Mr. Benjamin M. Ellison, Mr. Abraham Cohen, and Dr. Carl F. Muckenhoupt.

DEAN'S LIST BANQUET

The Sixth Annual Banquet given to the upperclassmen who had been on the Dean's List was held at Longwood Towers on May 13, 1933, with an attendance of one hundred of the one hundred and sixteen invited. Dean's List Scholarships were awarded to the men who led the sophomore, middler, and junior classes in scholarship. Recipients of the coveted awards were J. L. Dallas, '36E, and S. F. Amico, '36E of the Sophomore Class who had tie scores; Harold E. Draper, '35E of the Middler Class, and Robert F. Chamberlain, '34E of the Junior Class.

As the speaker of the evening, the Rev. Vivian T. Pomeroy, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Milton, used as his subject, "The Scholar in the Modern World."

STUDENT COUNCIL BANQUET

The combined Northeastern Student Council held its annual banquet at the "Toll House" in Whitman on May 26, 1933, with about twenty-two of the forty members present.

Morton S. Pratt, '34E of North Plymouth, Division A President, acted as master of ceremonies. After Dean Harold W. Melvin and Mr. Benjamin M. Ellison had spoken, a delightful evening was brought to a close with the presentation of gavels to the retiring presidents, Morton S. Pratt, '34E of Division A, and Frederick E. Abbott, '34E of Division B.

ANNUAL TRACK BANQUET

At the Annual Track Banquet held on May 20, 1933 at the Hotel Westminster, Gerhardt W. Milbrandt, '35E of Bristol, Connecticut, was elected captain for the 1933-1934 season. Richard Haley, '34E of Boston, was announced as manager for the same season.

Robert G. Grieve, '34BA of Waterbury, Connecticut, was awarded the Perpetual Track Trophy donated each year by the Alumni Association to the outstanding retiring junior on the track squad. Medals for record-breaking performances were also awarded, one to Joseph Stanley, '35E, and three to Richard Ellis, the Freshman flash.

After letters had been awarded, Richard Locke, '35E, retiring manager and toastmaster, called upon each of the four coaches to speak a few words. Following this, each coach was presented with an overnight bag in appreciation of his good work during the year.

Guests included Dean Carl S. Ell and Prof. Eliot F. Tozer, Coaches Zeller, Parsons, Tatton, and MacIntire, and members of the sensational freshman relay team, Dobbrow, Hakanson, McCarthy, and Ellis.

MUSICAL CLUBS BANQUET

The Annual Banquet of the Concert Orchestra, Bacchanalians, Banjo Club, and Division B Glee Club was held on June 7, 1933 in the Platinum Salon of the Metropolitan Theater, with about seventy men in attendance.

Following the presentation of charms to members of the Musical Clubs Council and other members of the clubs who had met the various requirements, toastmaster Charles M. Kelley '35E of Revere, of the Musical Clubs Council called upon Dean Harold W. Melvin and Professor Edward S. Parsons to speak.

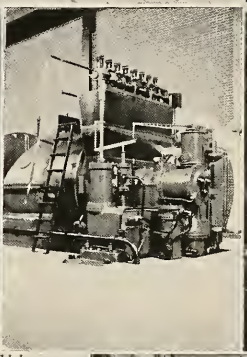
After the speeches had been concluded, the entire group went upstairs to a reserved section of the theater and saw the entire stage and screen show.

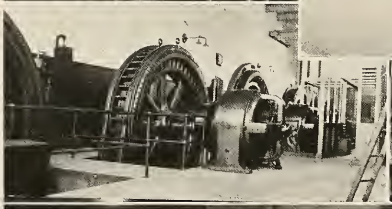
Guests for the evening included Dean Harold W. Melvin, Professor Edward S. Parsons, Mr. Benjamin M. Ellison, and advisers of the various clubs: Dr. Carl F. Muckenhoupt of the Glee Club, Professor Albert E. Whittaker of the Banjo Club, Mr. Verner O. Nelson of the Bacchanalians, Mr. Abraham Cohen of the Band, and Professor Joseph Spear of the Orchestra.

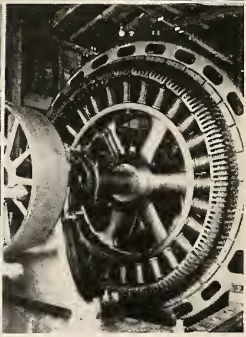
VARSITY BASEBALL BANQUET

The announcement of the election of Edward Murray, '35E of Woburn as captain of the 1934 Baseball Team was the feature of the Annual Baseball Banquet held on May 25, 1933 at the Hotel Lenox. At the same time, it was announced that Herbert Schutte, '35E was to be manager of the team for 1934.

Following the award of fifteen letters to members of the squad, retiring captain John J. Grosz, toastmaster, introduced Professors Pugsley and Parsons, and called upon Coach McCoy to review the season. All three men were vigrous in their praise of the sportsmanlike conduct of all men during a fairly good season.







FIELD DAY

A day shining with sunshine and good cheer greeted the happy crowds who attended the twenty-third annual field day held on Saturday, June 10, 1933, at the Riverside Recreation Grounds in Auburndale. Following the colorful and impressive Grand Parade, Albert E. Everett, chairman of the Class of 1923, presented the freshman class colors to T. P. O'Brien, president of the Class of 1937.

The events scheduled for a very full day were run off smoothly. E. W. Pai, '35E, won the tennis championship of the school by his victory over Louis Somers, '35E. The sophomores proved to be superior to the freshmen in the baseball game they played.

The spotlight then turned to feats aquatic. The inter-class swimming relay was won by the Class of 1934, with the freshmen coming in a close second. The open canoe race was captured by a freshman team consisting of D. G. Ball and R. C. Sanderson. The freshmen, notorious for their revolutionary traits, were undisputed victors in the canoe tilting contest. A. J. DeGutis, '37E, topped all his competitors in the diving contest and in the fifty-yard free-style swimming race.

The highlight of the afternoon's activities was the baseball game between members of the faculty and the chosen of the Class of 1923. The game turned into a holocaust, and to this day no one knows who won.

An innovation in the usual Field Day procedure was the lucky ticket contest for girls. Each member of the Field Day committee carried a supply of numbers and each girl who wished to enter the contest introduced herself to the white-capped committee member and asked for a number. The stubs were collected, a drawing made, and Betty Christie won the prize—a miniature loving cup, suitably engraved.

The last event on the day's program was a most enjoyable item: two five-piece orchestras provided music for dancing in the two halls in the main building from five to ten o'clock.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club was organized in 1933 with a membership of fifty-four, and Professor Coolidge as adviser. R. A. Joyce, '34E, was elected manager of the club, the purpose of which is to provide instruction and entertainment for devotees of this very ancient and honorable sport of kings.

Among their activities, the organization ran a Chess Tournament for members. This contest was won by O. M. Johnson, '34E, with a tally of twenty-five wins and five losses. The runner-up was E. W. Currier, '35E, with a total score of fifteen wins and no losses.

R. Mitchell, a member, was the author of a series of articles on chess which appeared in the News. He was a finalist in the tournament for the chess championship of the state of Connecticut.

The Club has also held regular meetings at which the game has been discussed, and which have proved very helpful in improving the individual play of the members. Intercollegiate competition has been considered, but no games have yet been played.

STUDENT UNION FRESHMAN CAMP

An innovation in freshman orientation at Northeastern was inaugurated on Saturday, September 9, 1933, when the Student Union sponsored a freshman camp at Camp Massapoag, in Dunstable. On Saturday afternoon, sixty-four freshmen, accompanied by eighteen upperclassmen and ten faculty members, left Boston on busses and cars to spend the week-end in becoming acquainted with each other before starting academic work on the following Monday.

Swimming and other outdoor sports were enjoyed before supper was served that evening. Movies, and an informal campfire meeting, at which faculty members spoke, completed a day of recreation.

On Sunday, after devotional services, all men again took up their swimming, canoeing, baseball, volleyball, or horseshoes. In the afternoon a hastily picked team of freshmen defeated an aggregation of faculty and upperclassmen in baseball. After an early supper, a tired but still congenial group journeyed back to Boston, happy in new friendships and pleasant memories.

Among the faculty guests were Dean Ell; Prof. Havice, Executive Secretary of the Student Union; Prof. White; Mr. Oberg; and Prof. Parsons.

VARSITY FOOTBALL BANQUET

The first Varsity football banquet at the University was held in 18H on November 14, 1933, with Lloyd Hayden, Varsity manager, acting as toastmaster. Following speeches which were made by Coaches McCoy and Tatton, and by Doctors Donchess and Kontoff, Prof. Parsons announced the awards of twenty-seven letters to various members of the squad. Prof. Parsons also briefly outlined the schedules for the coming two years and thanked the squad for their unbegrudged effort to make a success of the first season of football at Northeastern. Brad Johnson, '35BA, retiring captain of the team, made a brief farewell speech.

Gifts from the combined freshman and Varsity squads were presented to all the coaches, including "Doc" Donchess, who was also presented with a handsome black traveling bag by the University Athletic Association, in appreciation for his work with the squad during the fall.

Donald Wintle, '35E, was announced as Varsity manager for 1934.

Following the banquet, the entire group was invited to attend the Tremont Theatre as guests of the management.

FOOTBALL DANCE

Three hundred couples overflowed the Crystal Ballroom and the Empire Room at the Hotel Kenmore on November 17, 1933, to give the first Varsity football team a dance-reception. Dance music was furnished in one room by the Bacchanalians, and in the other by Chick Carlson's orchestra.

In addition to being the parting bit of praise for the Varsity, the dance assumed important proportions in other respects, the first of which was the announcement of next year's captain. After being introduced by John Grosz, chairman of the dance committee, retiring captain Brad Johnson spoke briefly and then introduced Dick Mitchell, '36BA, as the leader of the Northeastern's second Varsity eleven.

A second feature of the evening was awarding to the letter men of the squad certificates and gold football charms, the latter through the generosity of an anonymous friend of the team. Following these presentations, Coach McCoy spoke of the completed season and made optimistic remarks about the future of Northeastern football.

During a second intermission, refreshments were served, and motion pictures of the various games were shown.

Another feature of the evening was the playing of All Hail, Northeastern to fox-trot tempo for the first time.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

The finals of the Annual Public Speaking Contest, held earlier in the year than usual, took place at a mass meeting in Jordan Hall on December 6, 1933, with Prof. Havice presiding.

First prize was won by Amos H. Fenlason of Calais, Maine, who spoke on the subject "A Nation of Guinea Pigs" in a vigorous manner. John A. Metcalf, another senior, and from Weld, Maine, won second prize with his talk "You Can Change Human Nature"; while Kenneth P. White, '36BA, of Boston, speaking on the subject "Religion and College," and Frederick E. Abbott, '34E, of Falmouth, speaking on the subject "An Argument for Rational Pacifism," won third and fourth prizes, respectively.

FRESHMAN SMOKER

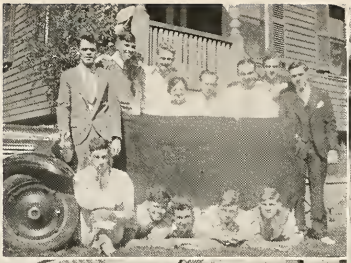
The first social event to be conducted by the Class of 1938 was a smoker held in Bates Hall on Monday evening, December 18, 1933, with about one hundred and fifty in attendance.

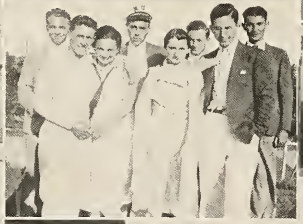
The Freshman Orchestra started the program by playing several popular selections, after which the newly-elected officers of the Class were introduced.

The program continued with dialogue excerpts from the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta The Mikado, given by Prof. Holmes and Mr. Oberg; these two faculty members also presented some of the better-known songs of the operetta.

Following a wrestling match between Spud Murphy and Spider Rodman (which, after fifteen minutes, was declared a draw by Referee (Professor) Whittaker) Professor Spear gave a short talk. Bob Simpson and Red Surovsky then appeared in an impersonation of the two radio characters "Charlie and Willie." Refreshments concluded a very entertaining evening, and a successful class smoker.

Faculty guests included Dean Ell, Dean Melvin, Professors Pugsley, Parsons, Bruce, and Tozer, Coach McCoy, and Mr. Tatton.





MIDDLER DANCE

The first class dance of the school year 1933-34 was that held by the Class of 1936 on January 19, 1934 in the Hotel Continental in Cambridge. Over two hundred couples representing all five classes, attended. Music for the dancing, which lasted from nine until one, was furnished by the Bacchanalians.

Roger W. Lund of Saugus, president of the Class, acted as chairman of the dance committee.

NEWS BANQUET

The annual News banquet for members of the staff was held on the evening of Sunday, January 28 in the Parker House. After a lavish dinner, the announcement of the Managing Board for the year 1934-35 was made, and gold quills were awarded to the new members of the Board, as well as to a few men on the staff who had contributed meritorious work to the paper for at least three years.

Robert B. Wentworth, '35BA, of Brookline, was named as the new Editor-in-Chief for Division A, while Leo L. Levy, '36BA, was designated as filling the same position in Division B.

Paul E. Noonan, '35E, retiring Editor-in-Chief of Division B, acted as toastmaster for the evening, and introduced Trentwell Mason White, formerly Professor of English at Northeastern, as the principal speaker. Other speakers included Dean Ell, Prof. Pugsley, and Prof. Potter, News adviser.

To bring the affair to a pleasant close, Lyle Shields, retiring Business Manager, presented gifts to Paul Noonan and Charles Perry, in recognition by the staff of the excellent work of these two men during the past year.

VARSITY BASKETBALL BANQUET

The Annual Banquet of the basketball team was held on Tuesday, March 6, 1934 in Room 18H of the Huntington Building with Milton W. Nutt, '35BA, retiring manager, acting as toastmaster.

Following the banquet, Professor Parsons awarded varsity letters to those men who had fulfilled the requirements for them, and spoke a few words about the successful season just completed. The next speakers were retiring co-captains, Adolph Jachym and Stanley Kramer who thanked the squad for its fine co-operation during the past year. Dean Melvin made a few remarks at this time which were enthusiastically received by all present. To conclude the list of speakers, Coach McCoy summed up in a few words the various games of the season and thanked all present for making possible the best basketball season that Northeastern has yet experienced. Heath Morse, '37E, of Beverly, was elected captain of the varsity for the 1934-1935 season, and D. Bourque, '36E was announced as manager for the same season, at this time.

Men receiving their varsity letters were J. Morse, '35BA, H. Morse, '37E, G. Milbrandt, '35E, A. Jachym, '35BA, S. Kramer, '35BA, E. R. Lewis, '35BA, J. MacDonald, '35BA, R. Owen, '35BA, A. Melville, '37BA, and Manager M. W. Nutt '35BA.

PURPOSE OF THE ORGANIZATION

"The object of this society is to foster and promote high scholarship and social activity." It is traditional that membership in the Senate is the highest honor which can be conferred upon a student in the Engineering School. This is so because it is recognized that, although scholarship is the fundamental basis upon which the Senate is built, it operates on the basis that high scholarship is but one of the characteristics of an all-round man. The Senate Scroll is awarded only to one who, by his excellence in scholarship, integrity of character, diligence in extra-curricula activities, and faithful endeavor in the interests of his fellow students has demonstrated his ability.

The purpose of the Northeastern Student Union is to apply the principles of Christian service in such practical ways as will be most helpful to the entire University. Its corollary purpose is to further those character-building elements which insure moral tone and ethical attitudes in student life. It is an organized method of helpfulness and fellowship, motived by friendly and altruistic aims and conducted by students for fellow-students.

THE autumn of 1933 marked the inauguration of Northeastern's venture into intercollegiate football. Under the tutelage of Head Coach Al McCoy, Line Coach Jerry Tatton, and Backfield Coach Edward Parsons, the Huskies went through a season that was no shining success as far as wins and losses are concerned but it did demonstrate that Northeastern is quite capable of providing stiff opposition for the best of New England smaller college elevens; this, despite the fact that practically all of the institutions with whom the Red and Black carried on competition were veterans in the field of intercollegiate gridiron warfare, boasting of established coaching systems directed by coaches endowed with a lengthy term of experience in these various systems.

From the coaching angle, Coach McCoy's position was one of the most interesting in the East. He not only took on the duties of a football coach, but likewise that of director of a football incubator. He was given the task of nursing the game as a Northeastern infant. It was an assignment calling for deliberate thought and careful procedure, and the attitude which the coach took toward it was one of enthusiasm spiced with determination.

To the martial music of a fifty-piece Northeastern University band, parading behind a police escort, and with King Husky I in the place of honor, the student body marched to Huntington Field to cheer the Husky eleven in its first intercollegiate encounter.

St. Anselm's College of Nashua, New Hampshire provided the opposition for the Huskies in the first encounter of a five-game schedule. The fall of '33 marked the return of the Saints to the field of intercollegiate competition after a twenty-year respite. It was a case of two relatively untried gridiron babes meeting on the field of battle with no comparative traditions to look up to. The Huskies opened the scoring of the foray when "Stewie" Mayberry, varsity signal caller, heaved a long pass into the outstretched arms of Captain Brad Johnson, with the latter out-distancing the Saints' secondary in the dash to the goal line. Northeastetn surprised even their most ardent boosters by completely outplaying their heavier opponents throughout the first half. The Saints, however, came back during the last quarter of the game to wear down a woefully tired but nevertheless battling Red and Black defense and ring up three touchdowns in rapid succession, bringing the final count up to 19-6 in favor of the boys from New Hampshire.

St. Michael's College of Winooski, Vermont came down to Huntington Field to face the Huskies in the second encounter and were sent back to the Green Mountain area with a 9-0 defeat hanging on their tails. This game not only marked the first intercollegiate football victory in the history of Northeastern University, but also demonstrated that the Red and Black possessed a distinctly rara avis in the form of a good drop-kicker, James "One-Play" McCarthy. On the first opportunity he had to show his wares, "Mac" booted a field goal squarely between the uprights from the 25-yard line. Johnny Esielonis, the stellar sophomore fullback, plunged over from the 2-yard line for the only touchdown of the fray.

In what was generally recognized as Northeastern's big game of the year, the strong Colby Mules came down from Maine to face the Huskies on the Kent Street field. Northeastern outplayed a powerful but spotty Mule outfit by a wide margin in the opening period and marked up their only score of the afternoon on a well-executed pass from Stew Mayberry to Captain Brad Johnson. Northeastern's varsity football team then lapsed into a second period of fumbling and poor tackling and saw their six-point margin swept away as the Waterville Mules capitalized on two N. U. fumbles, chalking up their second touchdown as the time expired for the quarter on a long drooping forward into the Northeastern end zone.

With the Huskies favored to beat them by three touchdowns, a fighting bunch of cadets from Northfield, Vermont, clad in the blue uniforms of Norwich University, took matters into their own hands to battle a very much surprised Red and Black outfit to an indecisive 7-7 tie. Hakanson featured in this game with his brilliant all-around play in the backfield. He had the honor of scoring the only Northeastern touchdown of the day. Captain Brad Johnson's defensive play bordered on the sensational.

In the final game of the year, a scrappy little band of gridmen from Arnold College in New Haven edged out the heavier Huskies by the slim margin of a converted goal after a touchdown; the final score was 13-12 in favor of the lightweight Terriers. Hank Furdon, playing his last gridiron game for the Red and Black, plunged over the line for the first Husky score of the day. It remained for the stellar Johnson to wind up his term of leadership and play in a Red and Black uniform by tallying the final Northeastern touchdown after receiving a perfect pass from "Stew" Mayberry.

With Johnson and Milbrandt as the only regulars who will not return to the squad next year, Head Coach Al McCoy looks toward next season's imposing seven-game schedule with no great feeling of anxiety. Next year will be the third season of play under the Warner system as expounded by Al McCoy for all those men who performed on the Frosh team of 1932. There is little doubt but that the seed planted in that year will begin to bear fruit with a vengeance during the season of 1934.

Regardless of anything else, it is a certainty that the faculty and the student body of Northeastern University will support, with whole-hearted enthusiasm, Coaches McCoy and Parsons in the difficult task that they have undertaken; that is, to furnish this institution with a football team that will staunchly and ably represent Northeastern University against any other college team of its size.

In parting, we send a bunch of orchids to ex-captain Bradford Johnson for the excellent calibre, all-around end play with which he steadily thrilled Husky football adherents. To Captain-elect Dick Mitchell we wish a year of outstanding success both for himself and for the team he will be guiding in the fall of '34.

IN their debut of the 1932-33 basketball season, the Northeastern varsity hoopsters defeated the Alumni 53-42 by scoring 13 points in an overtime period.

Swinging into intercollegiate action, Northeastern tackled the Brown Bears, only to be handed a 42 to 35 defeat. The game was closely fought, with the lead changing five times in the first half.

Countless ergs of energy were generated and much mileage rolled up as Northeastern and Clark transacted the basketball business at Worcester, but the Huskies harnessed their ergs better and traveled their miles faster, thereby gaining a 27-14 verdict.

The crack Clarkson Tech team, which numbered B. U., M. I. T., Tufts, and R. I. State among its victims, handed Northeastern a 41-40 setback in a game that required two five-minute overtime periods. Northeastern led, 18-14 at the end of the first half after running into a short lead early in the game.

For the second time of the season the Huskies proved too talented for the representatives of Clark University, defeating them by a score of 32-21.

Northeastern almost met success at Rhode Island State. The Huskies led at half-time 24-17 but during the late stages of the game the R. I. quintet got the long end of the 38-37 score.

In a close, fiercely-fought basketball battle, Middlebury College defeated Northeastern on the home court.

A fighting Husky quintet, trailing 17-8 at half-time and apparently void of scoring punch, threw caution to the wind in the second half of the New Hampshire game. Caging baskets from every part of the court, the Red and Black won in the last ten seconds of play on a long shot by "Pete" Cleveland by a score of 28-27.

Northeastern dropped a hard-fought game to Worcester Tech by a 40-37 score in their following encounter.

Honors were split by the varsity on their New York trip. They were edged out by Pratt Institute, 24-22, in a hotly contested battle. Only one reserve was used throughout the game. At Brooklyn the hoopsters scored an overtime victory over Brooklyn Poly Tech, 42-39.

Displaying their best form of the season, a battling Husky five whipped a stubborn Harvard quintet for the first time in the Red and Black basketball history. Only for a few seconds midway in the second half did the Crimson varsity ever hold a lead over the Husky quintet.

The next game found the Red and Black losing the second time to R. I. State 32-37 at the Johnson Gym. The tilt was a thriller from start to finish, the Rams being able to climb to their 10th win of the year only through an eight-point lead rolled up in the first half.

In their last game of the season, the Northeastern basketeers downed the Tufts five in the wildest and most exciting game of the season by a 37-32 score at the Medford Gym. After trailing for the earlier part of the game, the Huskies charged with a barrage of shots and easily held their lead with a remarkable defense.

Northeastern's winter sports program opened officially when a basketball team that had been "burning up" the gym floor journeyed to Providence on December 9 to face the Brown Bears. With only a few seconds to play, Heath Morse, a sophomore playing his first Varsity game, dampened the hopes of the Bears by following up a tally by his brother John with a long shot from center-floor to give the Huskies the 37-36 point advantage.

Battling on even terms with a visiting Clark quintet throughout the first half, the Husky hoopsters staged a brilliant attack in the early part of the second half to take the lead from the visitors by the decisive margin of 32-21.

When the final whistle blew on the Alumni game, the Varsity was still on the long end of a 29-27 score. Bud Rymph, '32, former star all-around athlete, led the Alumni, but his leadership was short-lived for he was assisted from the floor before the first period was over when he sprained his ankle after a crash with one of the Varsity players.

At Rhode Island State, the University basketeers met their first stumbling block. Despite the brilliant playing of the Huskies, the men of Little Rhody rallied in the last few minutes of play to break a tie and win by a score of 44-36.

Speed, accurate passing, and above all, fine team co-ordination carried the Varsity basketball team back into the winning column with a 34-24 victory over the highly-touted Middlebury College five to mark the fourth win of the season in five starts.

The team continued its winning brand of basketball by easily defeating the University of New Hampshire 38 to 24.

The Morse brothers, Northeastern's fleet forwards, flooded the visitor's basket with sufficient points for a 28 to 20 victory over Tufts at the Johnson Gym. A late rally by Northeastern spelled the first defeat for the boys from Medford. In consequence of this victory, Northeastern University's quintet has a justifiable claim to the Greater Boston intercollegiate basketball championship.

For the second year, the Varsity split honors in their New York invasion. At Brooklyn, Northeastern faced Pratt and lost, 27-29. The following day the scene of action shifted to East Orange, New Jersey, where the team nosed out the quintet of Upsala College in an overtime game that increased in speed with each period. The final score was 34-32.

The Huskies met defeat at the hands of Springfield College by the score of 30-26 on their opponents' court.

Allan Melville, playing his first game as a regular for Northeastern, dropped 11 points to lead his teammates to a 36-29 victory over Lowell Textile.

After trailing, 9 to 2, in the first ten minutes of play, the N. U. cagers uncovered a flashy and intricate brand of basketball to defeat the Engineers at Worcester Tech, 36 to 30. With Heath Morse leading the attack, their victory was not to be denied.

In the final clash of the season, with the visiting Rams of Rhode Island State providing the opposition, the Red and Black piled up a lead, then suffered a second-half relapse and went down to defeat, 28 to 23.

THE fourth Northeastern hockey season opened with the Red and Black clashing with the M. I. T. Beavers. Tech scored first on a rather flukey tally which rolled past Denton, and never was headed from that point on. The final score was 5-3.

Brown gave Northeastern the second set-back of the season at Providence by emerging on the long end of a 6-4 score. Gallagher made all four goals for the Husky team, assisted by Letourneau and Leverone on two of the shots. After about five minutes of the first period the Bears scored the initial tally when Dingwell was left alone at the net, the other defense men having been drawn out of position in the advance. Coach Raymond sent his men in to play a five-man offensive game, but the Brown team was too strong to be overcome. Gallagher made the most spectacular point of the game by carrying the puck through the whole Brown defense and getting an open chance to push one by the Brown net man.

A rugged band of Boston College puck chasers overpowered the lighter Northeastern sextet 8 to 6 in the third encounter for the Huskies. Held at bay during the first period by the acrobatic goal tending of Dingwell, the Eagles returned in the second period to take the lead when Funchion scored the first of his four tallies on a solo rush down the right lane. Northeastern, after its brilliant defense in the first period, failed badly in the second, but showed fine offensive power in the final chukker and pulled up within hailing distance.

Displaying a polished attack that clicked all evening, the Varsity hockey squad snapped out of its slump to blank New Hampshire State 6-0 for the first win of the season. Chick Letourneau and Herb Gallagher, with three goals apiece, shared the evening's honors with Cahoon, whose accurate passing made possible three goals, and Bill Dingwell, who, by his fine work at the cage, aided in shutting out the Wildcats.

In an overtime game featured by a duel of goalies and loose covering and checking by both teams, Northeastern and Colby played to a 2-2 tie. N. U. scored in the first and second periods via the Gallagher-Cahoon combination. Half way through the second period, Colby scored its first goal on a penalty face-off in front of the N. U. net. A short time later the second line converted for the tying marker. In a torrid overtime period of five minutes, with spots of fast and rough playing, neither sextet could score.

In their second encounter with the Beavers, the Husky pucksters defeated M. I. T. 5-4. Four times Northeastern took over a one-goal lead and four times Tech tied things up in two free-scoring periods. Old Ben Franklin, noted advocate of early rising, would have approved of this game—the whistle shrilled at 7 a.m.

Playing their last game of the season, the team lost a closely-contested 3-2 decision to the Brown Bears from Providence. The first and most outstanding score of the game came on a rush when Cahoon sped down the left lane with the disc. His long pass across the ice, intended for Gallagher, was too far advanced. The puck bounded off the boards to deep center ice. All the players converged on it and in the melee that followed, Letourneau got the loose rubber and drove it through an unprotected part of the nets.

With their season at an end, the Varsity hung up their skates for the last time—never to use them again under the stalwart guidance of Matty Walsh, the star defense man of the 1932-33 squad.

With approximately 50 candidates reporting to Coach H. Nelson Raymond for the initial practice, Northeastern's fifth season of intercollegiate competition started with a marked possibility of being the most outstanding campaign of Northeastern hockey history.

For the fifth successive year, the M. I. T. puck-chasers aided the Huskies to open their intercollegiate hockey season. It took the N. U. sextet a ten-minute overtime period to cage the winning goal, thereby pinning a 4-3 defeat on the Tech Beavers. Late in the ninth minute of the extra session, Gallagher, receiving a timely pass from Ken Cahoon, drove the winning shot past Milliken, the Beaver goalie, to win the game for the Huskies.

It looked as though the Polar Bears of Bowdoin College were going to win their opening hockey game until the Northeastern pucksters woke up, four minutes to play before the final whistle, and in one minute's time, scored three goals to win, 3 to 1.

At Providence the Huskies met their first defeat of the season by losing a heart-breaking decision to Brown University's undefeated team by a 5-4 score.

In the fourth starter of the season, Northeastern and Colby battled through 70 minutes of aggressive hockey to a 5-5 deadlock in an overtime game at the Arena.

The Northeastern hockey team invaded the University of New Hampshire rink and easily routed the Wildcats, returning home chilled by the sub-zero weather, but warmed by the 7-1 victory.

After playing a brilliant game during the first half of their encounter with the Eagles from Boston College, the Huskies fell victims to a sensational rally by the boys from the Heights which knotted the Huskies 5-5 in a torrid overtime game. The game was unusually rough and during the contest both teams played short-handed with either one or two members of the sextet resting comfortably in the penalty box.

Massachusetts State proved no match for the speed and cleverness of the Northeastern hockey sextet, bowing 8-4 in a fast and interesting game, which marked the close of the season for the Statesmen.

Led by Letourneau and Captain Gallagher, the Husky sextet tamed the formidable Wildcats from the University of New Hampshire for the second time of the season by the 6-2 count.

In their return game, the Bowdoin Bears came from behind to nip the series with the Huskies. The Bears trailed 2-0 at the end of the first period. After becoming accustomed to the inside ice, the boys from Bowdoin pressed all of the way.

Staging the most sensational finish seen in the Arena this season, the Northeastern pucksters closed their season in a blaze of glory, coming from behind to hand the strong Brown sextet their first defeat of the season, 5 to 3, in a game that required two overtime periods. With a jubilant crowd cheering the worthy charges of Coach Raymond for their victory, the curtain fell on a successful season with a spectacular climax.

ALTHOUGH formal track training does not start until after Christmas, the Annual Fall Handicap meet provided track fans with many thrills. E. Duncan MacKenzie showed his wares by taking thirteen points, winning both the hurdles and the dash and a second in the 220.

Captain MacKenzie won the opening event with the Brown Bears by taking the high hurdles in 6 and 1-5 seconds. Everett Eldredge, running in his first varsity meet, captured the 45-yard dash and the 300-yard run, showing his heels to Spinney, the Bruins' hope in the short dash. Bob Grieve, chased by Lloyd Allen, showed the way in the 600, after a thrilling four-lap race. The final tally of the meet proved that Northeastern had taken their fourth dual encounter from the Brown Bears by the score of 43-29. The Husky Pups downed the Cubs in the opening meet 41-31.

Coach Parsons next turned his attention to building a relay team for the Prout Games. This meet found a team of Gurske, Allen, Eldredge, and Grieve being defeated in a dual encounter with Fordham after a close race in the time of 3 minutes 29 4-5 seconds. Bob Grieve's famous finish fell short by inches of overtaking the Fordham anchorman. Outstanding in this meet was the work of Captain MacKenzie who won the 45 meter high hurdles championship of New England, defeating the seven-times-champ, Monty Wells, in the fast time of 6 2-5 seconds.

The next event for the Husky relay four was the Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden in New York City. Captain Elmer MacKenzie competed in the 50 meter hurdles but placed only third in his heat. The relay team, matched with Temple and New Hampshire State, found only New Hampshire tough but outran the Wildcats in the fourth fastest time of the evening—3 minutes and 27 8-10 seconds. The win in this meeting was due to the excellent running of Everett Eldredge who ran in lead-off position and opened a lead that was never overcome.

The B. A. A. Meet found the Northeastern relay team matched once more against New Hampshire and the Huskies finished with a forty-yard lead. More outstanding than this race was the match between the Husky Pups and the Holy Cross and Harvard first-year men. A pup team composed of four giants, Ellis, Hakanson, Tuscher, and MacLeod led the way over their rivals in the fast time of 3 minutes, 32 1-5 seconds.

Captain MacKenzie figured in a record-breaking final of the 45-yard hurdles at the University Club Games, when Grady and Hayes of Harvard finished in that order ahead of MacKenzie in the time of 5 4-5 seconds. The relay match between Amherst, Bates, and Northeastern proved to be a thriller when Bob Grieve, running anchor for Northeastern, with but a two-yard advantage over Adams of Bates, N. E. A. A. U. 600 yard champion, held off the Bobcat for two neck and neck laps, only to lose when the Bates man had the edge on the straightaway and won by a foot.

Journeying to Lewiston, Northeastern met the Bates Bobcats in their own cage and suffered a defeat by the tally of 59-40. Joe Stanley broke the college record when he ran the 1000 in 2 minutes and 24 seconds, running a form race all the way. Captain MacKenzie tied the cage record in the dash in 4 3-5 seconds and tied the college records when he cleared the high barriers in 6 seconds flat. Russ Jellison, a former Husky star, could have easily won the mile or the two mile but preferred to pull his companions along with him in these events for a clean sweep in both. Hadley and Empsall contributed two first places by their wins in the shot and the 35-pound weight throw respectively. This meet ended the Husky runners' indoor season.

Spring practice started necessarily early because of the early opening with New Hampshire on April 22. New Hampshire State as usual centered their strength in the distance runs. Gurske captured Northeastern's only win on the track, when he took the laurels in the 440. Milbrandt was the high scorer of the meet with firsts in the hammer and shot and a second in the javelin. Ed Pray took a first in the high jump over a former N. U. star, Bertelsen, at the height of 5 feet 10 1-2 inches. The final score gave New Hampshire 82 2-3 points while the Huskies gathered but 51 1-3 points.

The Greater Boston Intercollegiates gave Northeastern but one championship, and that to Ed Pray who leaped over 5 feet 10 inches to take the gold medal in the high jump. Captain MacKenzie, ordinarily a favorite in the hurdles, did not compete due to his ankle injury which he had aggravated by competing in the New Hampshire meet. Milbrandt and Hadley took fourth and fifth in the hammer, while later in the afternoon Milbrandt took a third in the shot. Allen gained a third in a record breaking 440, while Marukelli took fifth in the javelin throw.

Not disheartened by their showing in the intercollegiates, the Red and Black traveled to Springfield to meet the Gymnasts in their annual meet. For the first time in two years, Northeastern made a clean sweep in both the mile and two mile runs as Pratt, Stimpson, and Robak finished in that order in the mile while in the longer run Rodham, Lamb, and Stimpson took the honors. MacKenzie's injury was showing rapid improvement as he took two seconds in the high and low hurdle events. Bob Grieve, running in his first 880, took a second to the Gymnast while Stanley trailed in third place.

In the Alumni-Varsity-Frosh meeting, the first of its kind to be held at Northeastern, Richard Ellis, star freshman anchorman, shattered the college 440-yard record by running the distance in 49 3-5 seconds; later in the afternoon Ellis took the 880 in the fast time of 2 minutes, 2 2-5 seconds. This meet was tried as an experiment and the turnout of the old stars was excellent. Leroy Rymph came out of retirement to take the discus, while George Martin, another Alumnus, took the pole vault in handy style.

Gay Milbrandt scored Northeastern's only points in the New England Intercollegiate Meet, when he took a second in the shot and a fourth in the javelin.

Thus ended the season. Outstanding during the year of 1932-1933 was the freshman track team. In this group came Dick Ellis whose flying feet erased three records from the Northeastern books. Indoors Ellis, running at Exeter, put down 1 minute, 17 2-5 seconds as the college record in the 600-yard run. Outdoors saw the half mile record lowered to 1 minute 58 and 4-5 seconds and the 440 figures to 49 3-5 seconds. Hakanson, a team-mate of Ellis, equalled the 300-yard record as well as the time in the 45-yard dash. The season wound up with the banquet at which Milbrandt was elected to lead the trackmen for the next season. Robert G. Grieve, quarter miler, was awarded the Alumni Cup for meritorious service on the track. Later on in the year, Grieve likewise gained the Kontoff Cup as the most outstanding athlete at Northeastern.

HAVING lost only two men from the 1931 cross country team, Coach Clarence J. McIntire looked forward to the 1932 season with anticipation as he greeted over sixty-five candidates on the opening day of practice. About a nucleus of returning veterans which consisted of Captain Langley Morang, Carl Weaver, Arthur Rodham, Gilbert Lawrence, and Morton Pratt, Coach McIntire hoped to build a strong team. Coming up from the freshman team of the previous year was George Lamb who forced Tom Uniacke of Bowdoin to a new record over the three-mile New England course.

From the opening day of practice, hard training was in order, preparing for the New England Intercollegiate Champions, New Hampshire State, who were to be the Husky distance men's first opponents. On a blistering day in October the Wildcats journeyed to Boston and outran the Red and Black by the score of 15-45. Both teams were exhausted by the heat of the day, and although New Hampshire was the winner, long-legged George Lamb forced the State team to its best.

Undismayed by the beating at the hands of the Champs, one week later the Husky team traveled to Lewiston, Maine, to meet the Bates Bobcats on their hilly four-mile course, to seek a victory over Bates for the first time in three years. The Maine runners had for their best man, Russell Jellison, a former star at N. U. who had transferred to Bates. It was through the efforts of Jellison, who kept two of his teammates with him till they crossed the finish line, that Northeastern took their second defeat of the season 33-24. The defeat was due largely to the collapse of Captain Morang as he attempted to break up the Bobcat triumvirate about a mile from the finish.

Despite these early season set-backs, the harriers were determined to do better. Entering the Harvard Open Intercollegiate Meet as rank outsiders, the Husky team was the surprise of the meet as they finished in third place, but three points behind the winner, R. I. State, and but one point behind Bowdoin, the second-place winner. It was through the efforts of George Lamb and Captain Morang who finished in fifth and sixth places respectively that the team was placed in third position.

Spurred on by their success in the Open Meet, the distance men ran against Tufts at Franklin Park. Taking a lesson from their early season defeat at the hands of Bates, Captain Morang, George Lamb, and Henry Cattley grouped themselves over the five-mile route to finish in that order, thus making it impossible for Tufts to win. The final score was 23-32 in Northeastern's favor.

Two weeks after ordinary college cross country running had stopped, a Massachusetts State team with five straight dual meet scalps in its belt, journeyed to Boston to determine to take back a dog-skin to Amherst. Early in the meet, a duel between George Lamb and Captain Caird of State developed, a duel which was fought over five cold, soggy miles of turf to be decided at the tape by inches when the superior condition of the State leader was proved. Back of this stirring battle, with a helpful eye on his teammates and a wary eye on the pursuing opponents, came Morang, who kept Rodham, Stimpson, and Cattley together until they hit the tape to insure a victory for Northeastern by the score of 20-42.

After staying on the sidelines while Northeastern went through its first Varsity football season, the indoor track season opened with a bang, at the Annual Fall Handicap Meet. The meet was featured by the performances of Captain Gay Milbrandt and Jim McCarthy. Milbrandt in his first appearance of the year tossed the sixteen-pound ball forty-four feet and six inches, to win his event. The honor of being high point scorer went to McCarthy, who galloped through the high hurdles for a tie in addition to winning the low hurdles and tying with Red Sandler in the high jump. McCarthy not only ran within one-fifth of a second of the record in the high hurdles, but also garnered the sum total of fourteen points.

The team's first appearance as a unit was scheduled at Brown University, January 13, 1934. This was Northeastern's third meet with the Bruins in as many years; the Huskies always came out on the long end of the score. This year was no exception, for when the points were totaled, the Huskies were on top to the tune of 47 to 25. Captain Gay Milbrandt ended Brown's shot put supremacy with a record-breaking toss of 47 feet, 6 and 3-4 inches, breaking the Northeastern record by two feet. The other high light of the meet was the jumping of Red Sandler of the Huskies. Red tied with Larry McGovern of the Bruins at 6 feet, 1 and 7-8 inches to set a new Brown University Indoor Record. Considering the time of the year and the amount of conditioning that the wearers of the Red and Black had gone through, their performances as a whole were very creditable and pointed toward a successful season.

RELAY TEAM

Two weeks later, on January 27, at the Prout Memorial Games the Huskies took to the boards with another of their famous mile relay teams, made up of some of the stars of last year's famous freshman mile team, namely Allan Hakanson and Dick Ellis, the latter being the college 440-yard record holder. The remainder of the team was made up of Lloyd Allen and Harry Gurske, two mainstays on the 1932 quartet. Northeastern was matched with the fast Manhattan team from Gotham. The Husky speedsters put up a good battle, but the Manhattan anchor-man broke the tape ten yards in front of Dick Ellis in the time of 3 minutes, 28 and 3-5 seconds, which was the second fastest time of the evening. Northeastern also entered a B relay team, which in a field of six, carried off third-place honors, against strong teams including Harvard and Holy Cross. Red Sandler lived up to his previous sterling performances in the high jump by tying with Keith Brown of Yale for a second place at six feet two inches. The other events in the meet had somewhat of a Northeastern tinge, since Bob Grieve and Stretch MacKenzie made their debut under the colors of the Boston A. A. Former track captain Frank Shea, now running for the Lynn "Y," competed in the 300-yard run.

The following week-end, February 3, found the tracksters appearing in two meets. The relay team journeyed to New York to compete in the Millrose A. A. Games at the Madison Square Gardens, while the rest of the team stayed at home to compete in the New England Championship Events at the Boston "Y." In New York an unfortunate accident prevented a probable Husky win. After receiving the baton from Eldredge, Dick Ellis, Northeastern's anchor ace, ran into Fordham's third leg man who had just finished running and had crossed over into Ellis' lane. Enough valuable yardage was lost at this point to assure Fordham a victory, by about five yards in the fast time of 3 minutes, 25 and 1-10 seconds. At the Boston "Y" Red Sandler tied for first place in the high jump while McCarthy took the third place. Bob Grieve and Stretch MacKenzie, running for the Boston A. A., took second and third respectively in their specialties, MacKenzie losing his New England Championship in the 45 meter high hurdles to Phil Goode of Bowdoin.

On February 10, at the Boston Garden, the Husky cortege of tracksters were the guests of the Boston A. A. at their Annual Games. The relay team came through for a walkaway victory over their rivals, Springfield College. The race was a romp for the Huskies all the way, Dick Ellis crossing the line in 3 minutes, 29 seconds, with a very comfortable lead over Parks, the Springfield anchor man. Red Sandler continued his spectacular high jumping, to leap 6 feet and 2 inches to tie with Woodbury of Darrmouth for third, trailing only Spitz and Marty, the world's best high jumpers. Bob Grieve ran the third leg on a losing B. A. A. relay team, while MacKenzie failed to place in his specialty, the hurdles.

Wednesday, February 21, 1934 saw the Northeastern track men competing in their last scheduled meet of the indoor season as they treked to the Boston Garden to compete in The Annual University Club Games. The Husky relay team, composed of Alan Hakanson, Everett Eldridge, Harry Gurske, and Richard Ellis, was matched to meet the very fast quartets of Holy Cross and Harvard. This was the first time in history that Northeastern had been favored and matched with the two fastest mile teams in New England. The Huskies set out to prove that they deserved their place in the sun and they finished the evening by running well ahead of Harvard and about twenty-five yards behind the fast Holy Cross team, to finish second in this featured race of the evening. The race was won in the near-record time of 3 minutes 26 and 2-5 seconds.

Red Sandler continued along his meteoric path to clear 6 feet and 7-8 inch and finish second to Woodbury of Dartmouth. Sandler's jumping was all the more spectacular since this was the fourth consecutive meet in which he had cleared more than six feet.

Northeastern entered an entire team but the rest of the entrants found the going too fast or the Garden track too crowded to be at their best. Lloyd Allen and Joe Stanley showed very well in their races. However, the races were run on a time basis and their heats were not fast enough to place them in the scoring column.

The jinx that hangs heavy over the heads of Northeastern cross country and track leaders was much in evidence on the opening day of cross country practice when Coach McIntire was informed that Captain-elect George Lamb would not return to school. However, the interest in cross country was high as over fifty candidates turned out for the team. Coming up from the previous year's freshman team were Willard Perry and Albert Lengel to support the varsity veterans, Walter Robak, Dick Stimpson, and Henry Cattley.

The first meet with Springfield found the Husky distance men in excellent shape after three weeks of training. From the opening crack of the gun, the superiority of the Northeastern men was evident. Dick Stimpson set a steady pace for four and a half miles to lead the pack home and give Northeastern their first victory of the year by the score of 17-46.

One week after the Springfield meet, the Bates Bobcats came down from Lewiston, Maine to meet the Huskies on the Franklin Park course. For three years Coach McIntire had been seeking a Bobcat skin and Bates, minus Russ Jellison, proved to be another easy kill for the Red and Black five milers. Captain Butler of Bates, the only member of the trio who had locked arms at the finish line the year before to lick the Huskies on the Lewiston course, managed to save his team from a perfect score as he trailed strong striding Dick Stimpson to the tape. Despite Butler's individual efforts, he was unable to overtake the "Galloping Gollywog." McIntire got his Bobcat pelt with the score of 19-42.

The next meet with Massachusetts State found the upstaters out for atonement of the smirch on their near undefeated season in 1931 when the Northeastern took them over in the last meet of the season. The Staters were fortified by Walter Stepat, a transfer to the Amherst school, who used to wear Northeastern colors. Stepat proved to be the undoing of his former teammates as he led the way over the hilly four-mile course for a 26-30 victory. The competitive efforts of Cattley, Perry, and Robak proved to be the only fruits of this meet for the Boston boys.

The Tufts Jumbos met a determined group of harriers one week later on the Franklin Park course. The Brown and Blue proved to be no match for the Red and Black, and went down to defeat by the score of 19-41. Stimpson led the way once more, and once more one man from the opposition saved his team from a perfect score. This man was Savage, but he was followed by Ramey, Lengel, Robak, Perry, and Cattley to clinch their third dual meet victory of the year.

Both the Harvard Open and the New England Intercollegiates found the Huskies far from their best shape and finishing poorly. However, the performance of Dick Stimpson in the latter event was good as he fought his way up to eighteenth place.

FOLLOWING the progressive custom set by other McCoy-coached aggregations, the 1933 edition of Husky baseball bettered all previous marks established by a Northeastern nine under the tutelage of genial "Al." The record of seven wins and seven losses usually is nothing to get steamed up about, but in this instance it was an outstanding event, for it marked the fifth season that a Red and Black diamond outfit was able to finish with their heads either at water level or above.

In the opening clash of the season with Worcester Tech, the Huskies played in mid-season form behind the magnificent one-hit hurling of Gallagher to send the Tech boys back to Worcester with a 6 to 0 defeat.

Immediately after the close of the first contest, the Huskies departed for East Orange, New Jersey, where they crossed bats with a Panzer College outfit of unknown capabilities. The score was in favor of Northeastern, 12 to 2.

Coach Eddie Roundy's Colby Mules came down from Waterville to meet McCoy's boys at Huntington Field. Lefty Kibs toed the rubber in his first Varsity effort and held the Maine team to five scattered bingles, to turn in a 6 to 0 victory.

After holding the University of Maine nine for the first eight stanzas, Lerourneau suffered enough of a lapse in the ninth to permit the Staters to come from behind and tie the contest at 1 all, and in the tenth, aided and abetted by a wild throw from the outfield, the visitors tallied two more runs to sew up the contest.

Behind the pitching of sophomore Gillis, who made his Varsity debut in this game, the Husky nine easily defeated the invading Norwich Cadets by a score of 9 to 2.

The bespectacled Johnny Gillis again recorded a victory for the Huskies when he turned back the visiting Clark team with but three hits and a white-wash score of 3 to 0.

A ninth-inning rally on the part of the Bowdoin Polar Bears enabled them to tally four runs and edge out Northeastern by a score of 13 to 11. Jachym, Kramer, and Capt. Grosz featured for Nottheastern.

In the next event, N. U. was defeated by Rhode Island State by a score of 9 to 2 in the first game of their annual two-game series.

Facing the best opposing pitcher of the year in Felix Andruszkiewicz of Tufts, the Huskies were set back by a score of 7 to 0.

Sonny Irving's perfect squeeze bunt in the last of the tenth, with Jimmy Flynn on third base enabled Northeastern to eke out a 4 to 3 win over Middlebury College for the sixth victory of the season.

In the following encounter, N. U. lost a hard-fought contest to a well-balanced Brown outfit—score, 6 to 1.

By a decisive score of 5 to 2, Northeastern's Varsity brought to an end Little Rhody's string of victories. The boys from Kingston had won nine games straight, but Herb Gallagher's pitching and batting, combined with the steady defense and an offense that capitalized to the full every opportunity, gave Northeastern a win over their traditional rivals.

In the last game of the season N. U.'s nine found a six-run deficit too much to overcome and lost to Massachusetts State by a score of 15 to 5.

THE HISTORY OF NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

IN company with many American colleges and universities, Northeastern was founded under religious auspices. Instead of being controlled by one denomination, however, the university was established on a non-secretarian basis, its first trustees comprising representatives of several different denominations acting through the Young Men's Christian Association. The origin of Northeastern University may be traced back to the appointment, in September, 1896, of Frank Palmer Speare as educational secretary of the Boston Y. M. C. A.

When he assumed his new responsibilities, Mr. Speare found a group of heterogeneous courses in operation. Under his leadership, however, a reorganization took place; certain courses were abandoned, new courses were added, and the entire program was unified. Mr. Speare sought to arrange the educational program in appropriate curricula leading to definite and significant objectives. An Evening School of Law was established in 1898. This was a distinct innovation in that it provided an evening course with day school standards.

Shortly afrer this, in 1903, an Automobile School was founded, the first in the United States.

The early years of Northeastern University were characterized by the following policies:

1. "A transition from isolated hererogeneous supplementary courses to well organized departments with definite aims and purposes.

2. "A keen sensitiveness to actual community needs, a flexibility and elasticity of organization and a willingness to adapt the educational program to the needs of the students served.

3. "A maximum of freedom in the election of courses in order that the needs of particular students might be met.

4. "Provision of the best teaching talent which it was possible to secure.

5. "An efficient administration and supervision of the entire educational program."

In 1907 an Evening School of Commerce and Finance was established, the name of which has since been changed to the School of Business.

The year 1909 marked the establishment of the first day collegiate school, the School of Engineering, which from its inception was definitely committed to the co-operative plan. The first class comprised eight students who undertook curricula in mechanical, electrical, and chemical engineering and who co-operated with the Boston Consolidated Gas Company and three railroads: the Boston and Maine, Boston and Albany, and Boston Elevated.

It early became apparent that the co-operative plan offered by the School of Engineering filled a definite need in New England, for the enrollment of the School grew rapidly. After some experimentation with one-week and two-week periods of alternation between the school work and employment in industry the School adopted the five-week co-operating period upon which it has continued to operate with increasing success.

Early in the life of the School, Professor Carl S. Ell of the Department of Civil Engineering was made dean. Under his leadership a substantial full-time faculty was developed and the curricula of the school were broadened. A curriculum in industrial engineering was later established, making five courses of instruction in the various fields of engineering, all of which remain in operation today. The number of employing firms increased in proportion to the student enrollment, growing from the original four to over three hundred companies distributed throughout New England and along the Atlantic seaboard. From four part-time instructors the faculty has increased to seventy full-time members, and the original group of eight students has increased in less than two decades into a student body of over sixteen hundred.

In 1922 the day school of Business Administration was established on a full-time basis. After four years of operation this School was put on the co-operative plan and made an integral part of the Day Division.

By this time the present organization of the University had become effective. The two degree-granting evening schools, the School of Law and the School of Business, were placed under the direction of Vice-President Everett A. Churchill, and the two day collegiate schools, the School of Engineering and the School of Business Administration, were placed under the supervision of Vice President Carl S. Ell. The Huntington School and the Lincoln Schools, comprising the non-collegiate educational activities of the University, were also placed under the direction of Vice-President Churchill.

In March, 1923, the University secured from the Massachusetts Legislature broad degree granting powers which were augmented in 1930 when the University was authorized to grant the Bachelor of Science degree with course specification.

This account of the growth and progress of Northeastern University would be inaccurate without special mention of the large part played in its development by Dean Carl Stephens Ell, Vice-President in charge of the Day Division; Dr. Everett Avery Churchill, Vice-President in charge of the Evening Division; and Galen David Light, Secretary of the University. These three men who, with Dr. Frank Palmer Speare, form the Executive Council, are in large measure responsible for Northeastern University as we know it today. To Dean Ell, in particular, has fallen the task of guiding the destinies of the Schools of Engineering and Business Administration, a responsibility which he has discharged with unflagging zeal and with outstanding success.

Within the current year important events have occurred in the life of Northeastern University. A large tract of land adjoining the present University grounds has been secured, upon which an adequate series of buildings may be erected in which to house the various schools of the University. Important additions have been made to the board of trustees, which now comprises a remarkably fine and enthusiastic group of business and professional men. The inauguration of varsity football and the institution of a summer coaching school also signalize the current year.

These facts, none too commonly known in specific detail, constitute an historical record to which one may point with pride. It is not long, as the histories of some American colleges are long, nor is it spectacular; yet it shows the consistent and intelligently directed progress of an institution. Moreover, it suggests that the record of the future will be one of increasing developments in the physical and educational resources of the University.

THIS AND THAT

(Little known facts about the University, culled from many sources and prepared especially for the CAULDRON.)

The Limbo Lamp Lighters is the name of a defunct dramatic society that has not gathered together for many a year in spite of the fact we have an annual stage production . . . The William Whites out in Wellesley have an affinity for high places. One of them lives at 30 Summit Road and the other at 30 Cliff Road; the Summit Road White is our own Prof. White, while the other William White is a lawyer . . . One time when Prof. Schlagenhauf addressed a high school assembly, the principal got up immediately after the address and asked the students to remain a while before they passed out . . . Langley U. Morang of Waltham and N. U. athletics claims to have gone to school with Dorothy Jordan, the motion picture star . . . E. F. M., the dramatic critic of the Boston Transcript, is E. F. Melvin, brother to Dean Melvin . . . Walter McKinney, '36BA, who handles the business end of the News, comes from Connecticut, but got some of his education at the Lincoln Prep School of the N. U. educational system, before signing up for five years of business . . . The M. H. after President Speare's name stands for Master of Humanities, a degree not often seen around these parts . . . Before the days of his deanship, Dean Ell was coach of the varsity basketball team and one night away from home, when all the available men had been fouled out, Carl S. Ell stepped in and played the game . . . The poetic Prof. Potter of the English Department is an officer in the Naval Reserve . . . A favorite delight of most profs is the comparison of their Division A class in any given subject with their Division B class in the same subject, and the result is sometimes in the favor of A and sometimes in the favor of B . . . One of the rooms now occupied by the Northeastern News was the former home of the Flying Club, an organization which left behind airplane parts and a considerable amount of stationery, etc., when it left its quarters and vanished into thin air . . . Dr. Lake of the Economics Department once peddled books on what every child should know, etc., from door to door . . . Prof. Parsons, head of the Department of Student Activities, and Prof. Pugsley are neighbors in Watertown, living at nos. 19 and 23 Hardy Street respectively. They are considerably nearer to each other at home than at the University where their respective offices are situated in different blocks . . . C. M. Kelley of the Junior Prom committee is a Scoutmaster . . . The bell in the Y building which rings intermittently is a crew call for the maintenance staff. The plumber, the janitor, etc., have special numbers so that when, for instance, the plumber's number rings he reports to the nearest telephone for orders . . . According to the 1933-34 catalogue, the man with the greatest number of capital letters after his name is Alfred D'Alessandro, B.C.S., LL.B.,

C.P.A., M.B.A., a total of 12 to which several more are soon to be added. The runners-up for this distinction are too numerous to mention . . . The University never made a habit of selling liquid refreshments until about the time beer was legalized, on which occasion a device for dispensing orange-flavored water was installed in the branch bookstore . . . The jugs are still there but the cider is changed from time to time . . . A good deal of the work in preparing the annual college catalogues is done by Prof. White, who is the Executive Secretary of the Day Division, but different members of the faculty have tried their hand at writing for the catalogue . . . Two pictures over which many students have raved this past season are "Little Women" and "Alice in Wonderland" . . . Northeastern grew (like Topsy) from two pieces of chalk and an eraser to its present status. When the institution first began to function it had one teacher and one class, but several students. The teacher is now honored as the Founder and President of Northeastern University . . . The Faculty Committee on Student Activities, appointed by the Vice-President of the Day Division, is sometimes mistakenly called the Faculty Committee on Athletics because it makes important announcements in regard to athletic policies and schedules from time to time . . . An easy way to remember the University telephone (connecting all departments) is to think of 5 as in the 5-year plan, then add to 5 the number of digits following 5 to get the numerical value of the second digit and the rest is nothing. The result of this process is the telephone number—Kenmore 5800 . . . Some of the clubs ought to adopt the first born of the faculty advisers for mascots . . . ."Howie", '35BA is often engaged in wild game hunting and not infrequently comes to class dressed to kill . . . An old-time joke consisted of calling the Business Administration School the Jewish Engineers . . . Dean Melvin is too modest to admit it, but he has written a goodly number of poems of various kinds and had them published in national magazines . . . Some students were disappointed last year on account of paying the usual Student Activities fee and not receiving any CAULDRON, an item that runs into considerable money; hence there should be general rejoicing this year by the time you read this.

MUSINGS ON A POWER HOUSE SWITCH-BOARD

Long, black and shining in the light it stands,
Strange dials and switches deck its ebon face;
Dread death they hold back in their quiet grasp,
Unknown destruction hold they in their hands,
The thunderbolts of Jove they hold in leash,
And all the Hell on earth could they unloose.

These simple dials with quiet moving hands
Show now the store of death they have enchained;
The muffled hum of dynamos below
Sounds ominous to one who knows these things,
And yet the surface of this gate to Hell
Reflects the clouds and birds of spring, without.

And yet that wavering needle on the dial
Shows not the death of some poor wretch in pain,
Through these bright circuit breakers does not flow
A current that brings terror to all men,
And cheerful song of dynamos below
Portends not death to all who hear its sound.

Those flowing bits which uncontrolled mean death
Are in less active form the messengers
Of peace; they aid in love; they help to make
For safe and happy homes; 'tis their bright light
That guards the destinies of ships at sea;
They make the city safe by night and day.

Long, black and shining with the light it stands,
Strange dials and switches deck its ebon face,
Death and destruction hold they in their hands,
And yet the thunderbolts they hold in leash
Have changed the world to what it is today,
Have given men the power to conquer earth.

THE BRILLIANT STUDENT'S THEME

". . . and you will write a theme on any subject you may choose. Remember, I don't want any fantastic flights of imagination. I want good, sane writing on a good, sane topic." The professor paused to glare warningly at the Brilliant Student, a constant offender against this edict. The latter gazed blandly back at the professor. "Class dismissed!"

The Brilliant Student rose and sauntered thoughtfully out of the lecture room. His horn-rimmed glasses glinted in the sunlight. A sweater of many colors outdid the sun in brilliance. He wore plus-fours and his long shanks emerged from their baggy folds like candles from a cake.

As he walked along the street, he reviewed the ideas that teemed in his brain. "Let's see what I can write for the old prof. 'Prohibition—Volstead's Answer to a Gangster's prayer.' Somehow, I don't think the prof would appreciate that. What about this? 'How to Become a Prof—the Five Year Plan.' No, I don't think he'd like that either. Perhaps a nice, quiet business letter would do."

By this time, the Brilliant Student had reached his room. He took his typewriter from underneath his bed, placed it on his desk, reached for some of his room-mate's paper, slipped it in, and began to type his "nice, quiet business letter."

INFERNO, HELL

July 31, 3131

Mr. Benito M. Mars
3113 Discord Avenue
Terra, Universe

Dear Sir:

We cannot allow you to miss the new commodity we have just put on the market. You have been one of our steady customers, and we have served you very satisfactorily. It is with pleasure that we note that you are even now using the hate, intoleration, and prejudice we sold you some few centuries ago.

Science is improving every business. Why not yours? We take great pride in informing you of the latest product of our great research laboratories—the death ray. This ray annihilates armies in a matter of seconds. It is easy and economical to operate; it is not noisy, nor will it offend any aesthetic sense. You will recall that you complained of this fault in the gunpowder we sold you in 1914. We fear that the partial substitution of poison gas was not wholly satisfactory.

Only a personal inspection can convince you of the truly remarkable advantages this scientific death ray has to offer you. If you will mail the enclosed postcard, our Mr. Satan will call upon you for a personal demonstration.

Yours very truly,

BONAPARTE SKULL

Per Imp No. 3311—the Brilliant Student

The typewriter ceased its chattering and the Brilliant Student leaned back in his chair. The horn-rimmed glasses solemnly inspected the letter. "Shades of Roger Babson! I don't believe the prof would consider that a 'good, sane topic.' However, I don't feel in the mood for writing on a respectable subject like 'The Price of Wheat in Russia.' Wait a minute! Maybe I have something I wrote last summer."

The student rummaged ruthlessly in a drawer, finally producing a crumpled sheet of paper. He reached for an apple lying on his roommate's bureau and began to read.

YSATNAF

CHARACTERS: Ymechla, of Ysatnaf, a scientist
Egas, of Ysatnaf, a learned man
Claud, of Earth, an ordinary millionaire

TIME: The future

PLACE: Ysatnaf, an imaginary world

Scene 1

The laboratory of Ymechla. Strange, mystic apparatus lies strewn all about. The walls are without windows. A table, made of a solid slab of a highly polished substance, stands in the foreground. A number of curiously-fashioned benches are in the background.

(As the curtain rises, Claud is seen lying outstretched upon the table. Ymechla and Egas, clad in a queer combination of a Roman toga and a Highlander's kilts, are standing beside the table.)

YMECHLA: He will not know how he came here. It were best he learn not until later. This arsenic will awaken him.

(He walks to a bench, takes a small phial containing a clear red liquid, and returns to the table. Claud splutters as the liquid is forced between his lips; he sits up, moans, and clasps his head tenderly in his hands.)

CLAUD: By George! What a head! (He looks around and sees Egas and Ymechla.) Howjedo! Say, just where in—the galaxy am I?

YMECHLA (solemnly): Welcome to Ysatnaf, stranger!

CLAUD (aside): Ysatnaf? Never heard of the place. Some hick planet back in the Milky Way somewhere, I suppose. James must have taken the wrong turn back at the Big Dipper. I shouldn't have let him drink that 1931 bootleg liquor. They weren't particular what they bottled in those days.

(With a familiar gesture, Claud takes Egas by his toga.)

CLAUD: Say, buddy, have you ever been to Venus? Had the time of my life there last century.

EGAS (very learnedly, seeking to air his knowledge): Gewiss, van on vidit le wine quand it est red, on regarde dair laiben per rosy glasses.

CLAUD (aside): What kind of gibberish is this? I bet he's trying to stick me with some Greek. I'll show him! (to Egas) Yes, indeed. Laich lo-ozuzail! (aside) I don't know what it means, but I heard the rabbi say it to the tax collector so it may be appropriate.

(Egas retires baffled to consult a huge reference book.)

YMECHLA: O aggregation of protons and electrons, by what appellation are you known?

CLAUD: I am Claud, of the planet Earth. And you?

YMECHLA: I am Ymechla, a scientist of Ysatnaf. Claud of Earth, we have many surprises in store for you. Here, on Ysatnaf, we have progressed along different lines from you on Earth. For example, on Earth, you sentence people to death for crimes they have committed. Here, our life is eternal, but we reward our heroes with death. It is our firm belief that death is but the door through which one passes from one world to a better one. Thus, when people die on Earth, they would probably come to some happier planet—such as Ysatnaf.

CLAUD (suddenly thoughtful): Come to think of it, how did I come here?

YMECHLA: The time has come to let you know. You have died—the death of Earth.

(Silence as Claud strokes his chin and scratches his head.)

CLAUD (reflectively): So I'm a dead man, eh? Well, let's celebrate my death with a glass of whiskey. I hope you have a good cellar here.

YMECHLA (puzzled): Whiskey? There is no such beverage in all Ysatnaf.

CLAYD (shouting despairingly): Shades of Prohibition! This must be Hell!

(He falls back on the table as the curtain comes down.)

The Brilliant Student finished reading the play. "Worser and worser! The prof would censor that play better (or worse) than Will Hays. Besides, I can't say that 'Ysatnaf' isn't a flight of imagination. Well, a business letter and a play didn't meet the standards. Maybe a description of a painting will do. Here goes."

A BATTLE-FIELD

Glowing banners of red stretch across the sky as the sun retires to its feather-bed of clouds. Puny, tattered standards flap like vulrure's wings over a scene of battle and death. Brown as burnt cake is the ground underneath—brown where it is not reddened with the blood of men and horses. Green as the grass of paradise is the forest in the background; red as the fires of hell is the blood of the slaughtered men.

The fantastic rays of light kiss—a gloating, insatiable vampire's kiss—the glaring eyes of a man, stark in death. Horses rear in a mad dance, nostrils flaring, eyes rolling, feet kicking. Here, a headless body lies in a grotesque attitude—hands upstretched as if begging for the return of the wandering head. There, a man, squat and powerful in his suit of mail, stands exulting over a fallen enemy. And, standing in the stirrups in order better to deliver the coup de grace, another man is about to cut short his exultation. A soldier's face is twisted in agony as an arrow pierces his throat. A group of mail-clad figures is engaged in hand-to-hand conflict, swords questing eagerly for vulnerable spots in the armour. All is confusion. Everywhere one sees heads and swords and feet and hands.

There it hangs—"A Battle-Field." The painting is flanked by two pictures—a peaceful landscape, and a portrait of some mayor's wife.

The Brilliant Student raised his fingers from the long-suffering typewriter and expressed his opinion in no dubious terms of all theme-assigning profs. "That essay is too tame for the old fire eater. What he wants is something nice and subtle and ordinary. Drat the thing! My head is filled with all kinds of good ideas but none of them is eligible." The Brilliant Student gazed gloomily out of the window. Titles came and went—noble titles, but by no means "sane" ones. Then his face brightened. "Got it! I'll write a theme as commpnplace as miniature golf and as trite as—as Dorothy Dix." And he began to type merrily away.

THE WRITING OF A THEME

"Where is that eraser? I can't write a theme without an eraser. I refuse to endanger my marks so. It would be like going up in an airplane with a lunatic as pilot and without a parachute. Where is that eraser?"

At last the prudent student found the eraser. He gazed upon its worn surface like one who looks upon a tried and trusty friend. Then he placed it within easy reach beside the ominous blank paper lying so precisely in the geometrical center of the table. This done, he folded his arms, leaned comfortably back against his chair, and stared portentously at the wall before him for ten minutes. Then he got up and strode up and down the room for ten minutes. Next, he took up a piece of paper and a pencil and—drew a picture. Then he threw down the pencil and scratched his head slowly and thoughtfully. Yet, scratch his head as furiously as he did, draw pictures as feverishly as he did, gaze at the wall as blankly as he did—he could derive no ideas for a theme.

"Why didn't he give us a definite subject about which to write? All he said was 'Anything you want' and here am I left 'wanting'—wanting in ideas, and likely to be wanting in marks. Gosh! It's hard to write a theme. There's an idea! I'll write a theme entitled The Writing of a Theme. I should be able to put quite a little pathos in my essay. The landlord knows I know the agonies of the process! Let me see if I can do justice to the thoughts and actions of the unfortunate fellow who has to write the theme in my essay."

A fiendish grin lights the face of the student as he proceeds to place his hero (or shall we say victim?) in the throes of writing a theme. So, I fancy, must Edgar Allan Poe have looked when he wrote "The Pit and the Pendulum." An odd sympathy is evident between the author and his hero. Despite the conventional deeds which he makes his hero perform (scratching of head, worshipping of the "indispensable" eraser, etc.), despite (or, perhaps, because of) the labored phraesology, one can detect a bond which knits the creator and his creation. It is the bond which unites those who suffer in the same cause.

The student, conscious of his magnanimity, concludes his essay by giving an "A" to his hero-victim for this theme. I can think of no better way to conclude my essay than by granting my hero-victim an "A" for his theme—and leaving him to recover from the shock as best he may.

The Brilliant Student finished typewriting the theme and leaned back in satisfaction. "Now, there's a theme for you! Why, there's not one original idea in it. The ending is beautifully common. I ought to get an "A" on it."

Next day, he handed in his theme. A week later, he received it back. It was graded "C" and had the following comment: "For those lacking in ideas there are many suggested subjects in the English book."

Privately Printed

This 1934 Cauldron is a fine example of a limited edition, privately printed.

The staff of this book and an increasing number of other private publishers have been turning to organizations which specialize in the production of fine brochures, magazines, and privately printed books. For more than a century The Andover Press has served such publishers, planning and printing class annuals, descriptive booklets, genealogies, and other quality publications.
